DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

DATES TO FEBRUARY 5.

Congressional

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The Senate passed a resolution to hold evening sessions until the constitutional amendment was disposed of.

No bills were introduced but several reports from committees were received.

A bill passed to give effect to certain treaty stipulations with foreign countries. It authorizes the President to employ a military force when necessary to guard criminals delivered up under extradition treaties.

The resolution to authorize the payment of Senators from reconstructed States from the beginning of last session was taken up. Morton argued in favor, Trumbull against the proposition.

The morning hour expired and brought up as unfinished business the constitutional amendment. Williams' amendment was read, and he addressed the Senate in its favor.

Sumner next addressed the Senate, having offered a substitute for the pending resolution, providing penalties and a fine not to exceed $5,000, with imprisonment not to exceed a year, for persons willfully attempting to hinder any qualified person from voting, and other penalties for refusing to allow a voter, under this amendment, to register.

In the House, Boutwell, from the Judiciary Committee reported a bill for the relief of Admiral Farragut, his officers, and the men of his fleet that passed Forts Phillips and Jackson under fire. The bill provides that they be entitled to the benefit of the prize law in the same manner as if the district court of the eastern district of Louisiana had been open, and process libelled therein. It gives cognizance of the case to any United States Court having admiralty jurisdiction, and directs the payment out of the Treasury. Butler supported the bill, which passed without division.

Wood introduced a bill to promote the progress of the fine arts. It provides for the registry of new designs. Referred to the Committee on Finance.

Spaulding, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported back the Senate amendments to the navy appropriation bill, which was made the special order for Monday next, in Committee of the Whole.

Several private bills passed, and the House went into Committee of the Whole on the army appropriation bill.

Hooper made a speech on finance.

In the House, after a running debate of considerable length on the army appropriation bill, unanimous consent was given to the chairman of the Military Committee to give his amendment providing for the consolidation of the several staff departments of the army.

Washington News

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—The Tribune's special says a debate in the House yesterday showed a decided disposition to reduce the army. It seems pretty certain that some bill in this direction will pass during the present session.

The Senate Railroad Committee had a long and stormy session. The claims of the Union Pacific, Eastern Division, which were killed in the House three weeks ago, were vigorously pressed, and finally committed to a committee, who voted to include this road in the consolidation proposed, and extend the road from its present termination about five hundred miles southeast, to its junction with the new line on the thirty fifth parallel, east of Alberquerque. This makes five roads in combination, and a total of 5,300 miles. It is not probable that the thirty-second parallel road will be included in this combination, though its friends are making strong efforts to have it included.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The President to day nominated Henry S. Watts, of Pennsylvania, for Secretary of the Legation at Vienna, vice Hay resigned.

It is understood the project for a Convention between the United States and the North German Union for the better protection of emigrants to the United States is under consideration by Baron Geralt and certain parties in New York and Washington, and that a plan of treaty is already prepared, both at the Treasury and State Departments—that from the latter office modifying several provisions—but no definite action has yet been taken in respect to either.

The Senate Committee on the Pacific Railroad has decided by a majority of three to extend the Union Pacific road (eastern division) from its terminus in Kansas southward to a junction with the Atlantic and Pacific road, on the 35th parallel, in New Mexico. The trunk line west of the junction, toward the Pacific, to be built and controlled jointly by the two companies.

Mrs. Stover, President Johnson's daughter, and her family left to day for her home in Tennessee. Mrs. Johnson was unable to accompany her on account of ill health.

New York News.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Pork quiet at $33 for new mess, cash; regular, $33 25@33 50. Beef more firm and active. Butter quiet at 25@35c for Ohio.

Gen. Grant visited Appleton's book concern to-day and dined with Hamilton Fish. He will go to Washington to-morrow.

ALBANY, Feb. 5.—A bill was introduced in the Assembly to-day for the appointment of a commission to have charge of the proposed change of the eastern boundary of New York City above Fortieth street, by cutting a new avenue from that point to the Sound.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 5.—The proposition for the submission of a Constitutional amendment to the people, providing for woman suffrage, was defeated in the Missouri House of Representatives to day by a vote of 58 to 43.

TORONTO, Feb. 6.—A gang of desperadoes, among whom are two penitentiary convicts, were discovered to day in a little hut on an island. They threatened to shoot the detectives who went to arrest them. While the detectives sent for assistance the thieves escaped in boats. On entering the hut a large quantity of stolen articles were found.

From Cuba

HAVANA, Feb. 6.—The Peace Commissioners sent to the insurgents have returned unsuccessful. The insurgents demand that guarantees be given that the Spanish Government will comply with the promises made in view of their return to arms and of the demands made by the insurgents. The war is certain to continue. The fate of the island can only be decided by arms, as the government cannot grant the demands of the insurgents. The most conflicting stories are in circulation about the killing of prominent insurgents.

HAVANA, Feb. 6.—Further advices from Mexico state that Erogo and other generals have pronounced in favor of Santa Anna.

The bill granting S. Kitton a concession for the building of a railroad between El Paso and the City of Mexico, was passed by Congress.

It says the treaty's defeat will be owing to some public fashion of repudiation. If the Senate should hesitate to ratify it, England will not chafe. The whole document needs reconsidering. Every claim practically may now reach the sovereign empire. This is no settlement.

The new Greek Ministry has failed. Premier Bulgaris has been recalled. The King is firmly for the protocol.

A Wicked Fraud.

[illegible] ON MARK TWAIN.

It is seldom pleasant to tell on one's self, but sometimes it is a sort of relief to a man to make a sad confession. I wish to unburden my mind now, and yet I almost believe that I am moved to do it more because I long to bring censure upon another man than because I desire to pour balm upon my wounded heart. (I don't know what balm is, but I believe it is the correct expression to use in this connection—never having seen any balm.) You remember that I lectured in Newark lately for the young gentlemen of the [illegible] Society? I did, at any rate. During the afternoon of that day I was talking with one of the young gentlemen just referred to, and he said he had an uncle who, from some cause or other, seemed to have grown permanently bereft of all emotion. And with tears in his eyes this young man said:

"Oh, if I could only see him laugh once more! Oh, if I could only see him weep!"

I was touched. I never could withstand distress. I said:

"Bring him to my lecture. I'll start him for you."

"Oh, if you could but do it! If you could but do it, all our family would bless you forevermore—for he is very dear to us. Oh, my benefactor, can you make him laugh? can you bring soothing tears to those parched orbs?"

I was profoundly moved. I said:

"My son, bring the old party around. I have got some jokes in that lecture that will make him laugh if there is any laugh in him; and if they miss fire I have some others that'll make him cry or kill him, one or the other."

Then the young man blessed me, and wept on my neck, and blew his nose on my coat tail, and went after his uncle. He placed him in full view in the second row of benches that night, and I began on him. I tried him with mild jokes; then with severe ones. I dosed him with bad jokes, and riddled him with good ones; I fired old jokes into him, and peppered him fore-and-aft with red-hot new ones. I warmed up to my work, and assaulted him on the right and left, in front and behind. I fumed and sweated, and charged and routed till I was hoarse and sick, and frantic and furious—but I never moved him once. I never started a smile or a tear! Never a ghost of a smile, and never a suspicion of moisture! I was astounded. I closed the lecture at last with one despairing shriek—with one wild burst of humor—and hurled a joke of supernatural atrocity full at him. I never phased him! Then I sat down bewildered and exhausted.

The President of the Society came up and bathed my head with cold water, and [illegible]:

"What made you carry on so toward the last?"

I said: "I was trying to make that confounded old fool laugh in the second row."

And he said: "Well, you were wasting your time—because he is deaf and dumb, and as blind as a badger."

Now was that any way for that old man's nephew to impose on a stranger and an orphan like me? I simply ask you, as a man and a brother, if that was any way for him to do?

MARK TWAIN.

THE VALLEY OF DEATH.—Eighty miles northwest from Camp Cady, on the Mojave river, California, there is a well known and dreaded "Death Valley." It is said to be lower than the level of the sea, and wholly destitute of water. The valley is some fifty miles wide by thirty in breadth, and save at two points, it is wholly encircled by mountains, up whose steep sides it is impossible for any but expert climbers to ascend. It is devoid of vegetation, and a shadow of bird or wild beast never darkened its white glaring sand. In the early days trains of emigrants bound for California passed, under the direction of guides, to the south of Death Valley, by what is known as the "Old Mormon Road." In the year 1860 a large train, with some three hundred emigrants, mostly from Illinois and Missouri, came South from Salt Lake, guided by a Mormon. When near Death Valley a dissent broke out in a part of the train, and twenty-one families came to the conclusion that the Mormon knew nothing about the country, so they appointed one of their number a leader and broke off from the main party. This leader determined to turn due west, so with the people and wagons and flocks he traveled for three days, and then descended into the broad valley, whose treacherous mirage promised water. They reached the center, but only the white glaring sand, bounded by the scorching peaks, met their gaze on every hand. Around the valley they wandered, and one by one the men died, and the panting flocks stretched themselves in death under the hot sun. Then the children, crying for water, died at their mothers' breasts, and with swollen tongues and burning vitals the mothers followed. Wagon after wagon was abandoned, and strong men tottered and raved and died. After a week's wandering a dozen survivors found water in the hollow of a rock in a mountain. It lasted but a short time, then all perished but two, who through some miraculous means got out of the valley and followed the trail of their former companions. Eighty-seven persons, with hundreds of animals, perished in this fearful place, and since then the name of Death Valley has been applied to it.

THE CUBAN SPIRIT.—A little thing sometimes gives us a truer insight into the character of human movements than volumes of more general information. The Cuban insurgents, in one of their recent battles against the Spaniards, not being able to procure any other artillery, used wooden cannon. They could only fire a few rounds from these fragile guns when they would burst, oftentimes killing the cannoneers who served them. Men who fight in this way, we may safely conclude are in earnest. Their sprit is that of the Mexicans who, when fighting against Cortez, used to say that they cared not how many natives fell so that they could now and then kill a Spaniard. General Dulce's dulcet proclamations will not move the revolutionists much, we fear.

How's your seal? is asked no more says the [illegible]; it has given place to a new inquiry. When friends meet now-a-days on Montgomery street or elsewhere, the question instantly asked on both sides is "When do you start?" [illegible] it is naturally understood that starting means for White Pine, it being merely a question of time anyhow.

Post Office Matters at Baker City.

Post Office, Baker City, Ogn., }
Jan 26, 1869. }

[illegible] Oregonian:

Please find enclosed a communication clipped from a sheet known as the Grand Ronde Sentinel, published in La Grande, Union Co., Oregon, under date of Jan 24, 1869. The writer evidently intends to reflect upon the veritable old official who stands in the post-office, from one year's end to the other (Sundays not excepted)—not altered by the neck, but might as well be—and who is known to be an inveterate eater of Democratic documents, especially Grand Ronde Sentinels and La Crosse Democrats, the latter having been devoured in much larger quantities for the reason that there are more of them.

In order to elucidate the subject before us—namely, the mail service, outside as well as inside the post office, by one who knows—I propose to draw a picture in real life of the working of the Baker City post-office, which will apply, to some extent, to all other offices known to your correspondent. We are situated in Baker county, and of course immediately on the mail route from Umatilla to Boise City. We are surrounded by a large district of country not supplied with the mail except through this office, hence the opportunity for devouring the mail is good. But to our picture.

The stage comes, drives immediately to the hotel, (not the post-office) the mail bags are "hove" from the top of the stage with a crash in front of hotel, stage drives to stable to change horses. The old post-master immediately suspends secular business to attend to the mail, which still lies undisturbed. Time passes. The old paper-eater paces his office with uneasy step, glancing across the way at the well filled mail-pouch, evidently with a fierce appetite for more Sentinels. The horses are changed and come back with a rush, baggage begins to fly about, mail-bags are jerked 'tother side up and 'tother end to, a general bustle ensues, passengers rush about furiously, driver sings out "all aboard!" horses stamp and champ their bits. The scene is now sublime to all except the old paper-eater, who is evidently about boiling over with pure indignation—the usual repast is about to depart—what shall be done?—there is not a moment to lose! He ponders fast; says audibly, "I am too old to lug such enormous mail bags far $1,200 a year, and I will sing out for help!" Luckily a bystander sees the situation of things, grabs the huge pouch and makes towards the post-office with celerity, regularity and certainty—celerity, because he comes with all possible speed; regularity, because it is dragged regularly in the mud, and with certainty, because it never fails to deposite the usual quantity of dirt. The scene now changes. The huge pouch is hurled against the front door of the office, which has been closed for some time to keep the house clear, as usual, while opening the mails. With a vehement gesture and yell "Way Mail!" the old official rushes with all possible dispatch, lays hold of the clean end, and tugs it through the door; the crowd rushes, the door closes during a scuffle to gain the inside at the moment the bag is passed in; a few are inside in spite of all effort, who chuckle at their fortunate escape from the inclement weather, while the outside growl with one gentle and harmonious growl, with very appropriate remarks applicable to the occasion, meant for post-masters to take. The mail is opened at last, with some delay owing to the mashed and broken condition of the staples and clasp. The contents are emptied in one huge pile on the floor, the old paper-eater is down on his knees on one side of the heap and his venerable deputy on the other, and now the work goes on! Only one minute of time, and to all appearances at least six hundred packages to read, and in such hand-writing that it would take an [illegible] three weeks to make one out, unless he was a Frenchman and Dutchman both, and understood the Chinese [illegible], with all of its modulations. The result is, the old deputy studies, he trembles, adjusts his [illegible], gives it up! and appeals to the principal, who has gone to the door to read. Six registered letters in transit. Insiders begin to get impatient, outsiders to grow violent. "I have one letter recorded, and only five more, be patient!" says the old man. Front door violently shaken, with remarks. Stage driver sings out. Four letters now recorded, and old deputy stalled, and all hands inside volunteering assistance; two men at the back window rapping, and singing out—"Here are important letters that must go in this mail, or we suffer great loss!" and they rush for the back door; loud noises outside—the old deputy gets mad—spits tobacco juice on the pile of mail—the letters are on record—and the heap is attacked again! It is found to consist of about one-eighth of way mail, and seven-eighths through mail, and going in the wrong direction, consisting of still another class of a conglomerated mass of loose papers—[illegible], Heralds, and Grand Ronde Sentinels, mixed and [illegible] up in the most approved manner, so that in looking after the [illegible] written or printed on them in order if [illegible] to ascertain their destination, it is necessary to turn over, untwist, [illegible] down, read the name and appeal to the memory, (which in post-masters of course must be unlimited), and make the decision at once. It is no wonder that such a delicate dish of palatable and digestible mail matter, cooked in this most approved [illegible] would [illegible] the keen appetite of the most [illegible]. It is a fact, too, not generally known, that [illegible] and papers of like character, have been devoured in the same way by the same old gormandizer at Baker City, as indicated by the straws of the Grand Ronde Sentinel.

Twenty minutes have elapsed, in spite of the utmost [illegible] of the official and his deputy, including the assistance of several volunteer post-masters, who have been quarreling for five minutes at least over a package of [illegible], one party insisting the direction is Boise City, and the other that it is Baker City, and is the identical package in which his paper is expected; loud words ensue; an appeal is taken to the old official, who of course knows, but who is now intensely busy; stage driver sings out again for the mail, with a terrific shake at the old door, with oaths and suitable remarks, as before, except with a greater vehemence of language; the excitement increases; the package in dispute is hurled across at the old government servant for instant decision, knocking his assorted piles of mail into pi. Old official says nothing, for he cannot do the subject justice; big piles of mail to go up—one of matter going in the wrong direction, and still another so badly addressed that their destination cannot be known, with a series of smaller piles for various neighborhoods and mining camps, the [illegible] of the whole not being understood by any except the old boss post-master, whose head is so thick that he cannot keep run of more than one-half of the shifting [illegible] of the various mining camps, and who is so stupid that he cannot remember even the half of the [illegible] received from those [illegible], which [illegible] is expected to do. The instructions are short, none of which cover more than two [illegible], and only about 250 of them. It is true that 190 of the orders have been rescinded, or are attended with certain contingencies, some of which are so badly written that no one is expected to read them except post-masters. But the mail must now close, whether [illegible] or not—everybody is getting impatient—things are hurried with all possible dispatch. The package [illegible] found to be minus the entire address except the first two letters—no conclusion is arrived at—laid aside for future examination. One more scene, and the mail closes until the next arrival, which will occur some time during the afternoon—cannot tell within an hour or two.

Last scene: Man from Missouri pacing in front, outside—hand full of letters, apparently looking for a hole [illegible] much loud talk; cannot hear what is [illegible] front window; he recognizes a comrade inside, who is greatly enjoying the pictures of his last La Crosse—outside gent yells furiously—inside gent [illegible] conversation ensues; letters are passed through a broken glass, three of them; they are [illegible] up, having been carried in the [illegible] with twist tobacco and jack-knife; inside gent rushes furiously, letters in [illegible] the mail all in—pouch closing—'Hold! hold! these are letters I is bound to go in that bag, before it is done up! here they are—take um, quick! She sent word to tell you to stamp um, and 'dress um to Pike county, Missouri!" The old official jerks up pen spasmodically. "Sing out quick!" says he "Well, one goes to Pike, and the other two to Guthrie county, she said." Post-master, evidently exhausted—"But who are the [illegible] to be addressed?" Indeed, but I have told you all now! Why, don't you know!" Mail closes—[illegible] crowd rush in. M.

CHANCE OF NAME!

MERCADO & CO., SUCCESSORS TO Mercado & Seully, have been obliged for their own protection and the safety of the public, to change the name of their celebrated Bitters to

MERCADO'S
Native California Wine
BITTERS

We subjoin the following affidavit in an injunction suit formerly pending between Mercado & Seully, plaintiffs, and O. W. Simon, defendant:

P. Sainsevain, being duly sworn, says, That the article known as Sainsevain's California Wine Bitters was manufactured by Mercado & Seully, about the month of March, 1861, without the said Sainsevain Brothers having any concern in the manufacture thereof. The deponent has always known and considered said Mercado & Seully as the Sole Proprietors of the Sainsevain California Wine Bitters."

Notwithstanding the above affidavit the said P. Sainsevain is putting up a compound under the name of Sainsevain's California Wine Bitters, representing it to be the same as our celebrated Bitters, which we have been manufacturing and selling in immense quantities since 1860, and also affixing a nearly similar label to that used on our genuine Wine Bitters. BE NOT DECEIVED! Send for

NATIVE CALIFORNIA WINE BITTERS,

And you will obtain the same popular beverage so favorably known since 1860. Beware of Counterfeits! Purchasers of our Wine Bitters are requested to observe the familiar old yellow label, and see that the words, "MERCADO & SEULLY, SAN FRANCISCO," are engraved on the Government stamp pasted over the cork of each bottle. This is the only effectual security against the counterfeit imitations.

Proposals must be to carry the mail with "celerity, certainty, and security," using the terms of the law, and they must be guaranteed by two responsible persons, certified to as such by a postmaster or judge of a court of record.

No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connections with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained, from neglecting to take the mail from or into a postoffice, for suffering it to be injured, robbed, or lost, and for refusing, after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running vehicles on the route. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for disobeying the post office laws, or the instructions of the Department. He may alter the schedule of departures and arrivals, and also order an increase of service by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may also curtail or discontinue the service in whole or in part at a pro rata decrease of pay, allowing one month's extra compensation on the amount of service dispensed with. Bids should be addressed to the "Second Assistant Postmaster General," superscribed "Proposals, State of Oregon," and sent by mail.

For forms of proposal, &c., and other information, see advertisement of this date, in pamphlet form, at the principal post offices. ALEX. W. RANDALL,

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,

AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system: Look at their pallid, [illegible] ted and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them not delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co.

OREGON CITY ITEMS.—We learn from the Enterprise that Mr D P Thompson offers large rewards for the recovery of his money and papers recently stolen ... At the meeting of the Common Council on Monday evening last Mayor Dr. Barclay, A J Apperson and N W. Randall were appointed a small pox committee......The Land Office disposed of lands during the month of January, 1869, as follows: By final donation certificates, 11,356 acres; by homestead entries, 2,689 acres; by cash sales, 523 acres, by final homestead entries, 802 acres. The Directors of the Odd Fellows' Hall Association are displaying the right kind of spirit, and are determined that the building shall be finished this year.. On Friday evening next, at the Phoenix Hotel, which, by-the-way, is a little the best hotel in this part of the country, there will be a public cottillion party ...The new flouring mill of Messrs Miller Church, and others, fitted in this city, the past year, will begin the work of flouring wheat on Monday next. It is said the Ku Kluxes of this city have decided to meet in secret hereafter, and swear each member. .. The last Council increased the pay of the night watchman to $30 per month......Messrs. Salmon Brothers have completed the model of an improved rotary engine, of double action—reversible. It is a very simple machine, so simple that any one can be an engineer wherever it is used. It will be applicable to locomotives, or steamboats, and we predict for it a leading place in that catalogue. The model is finished, and will go on to Washington City in a short time.

THE BATES COMPANY AT VICTORIA.—The Colonist of the 2d inst., thus notices the opening of the season at the Theater Royal, by the Bates Company: "After a lapse of some months the drop curtain has been raised, and a large and appreciative audience have assembled to witness the performance of a troupe of talented artistes from a neighboring American city. Last evening the Bates Dramatic Company opened with the great comedy of 'London Assurance,' and achieved a brilliant success. The reception of the strangers was warm and enthusiastic; and we are glad to have it in our power to say that in every respect they justified the high opinion we had formed of them. Mr. Bates' Sir Harcourt Courtley, is as finished a piece of acting as will be found anywhere out side of the highest range of histrionic talent; his delivery was remarkably good, and the personation of the old roue's affectations was well preserved throughout the whole piece. Mrs. Bates' Lady Gay Spanker is a charming rendition of character. The famous hunt scene—or rather description of the hunt—had all the vivacity and intensity given to it by Mrs. Bates which the earnest nature of Lady Gay calls for; and her intense anxiety respecting the fate of her husband, Spanker, was comically and affectingly rendered. Mrs Bates thoroughly conceived and developed the part she played, leaving room only for that improvement which experience will give Miss Field's Grace Harkaway was very good. Her manner was natural and her elocution fine. Messrs. Thayer, Robinson, Fuller, and Thornton played the roles entrusted to them admirably. The stay of the company will be necessarily short, and we hope that none of our citizens will allow them to leave without giving them at least one visit." The Colonist of the next day, the 3d, speaks in very high terms of the manner in which the tragedy of Romeo and Juliet was rendered. The audiences on both evenings, were very large ones, and it seems to be well assured that the season will be financially successful.

VANCOUVER ITEMS.—We clip the subjoined items from the Register of Saturday: S. W. Beall has been appointed County Assessor vice Seneca Knight, resigned ...A child of Mr P. H. Fox was scalded yesterday. How badly, we did not learn.....Several buildings about town are receiving improvements, and the town is constantly presenting a more favorable appearance.....We regret to learn that Sister Blandine, who is well known in this community as having been a long time the Secretary of the establishment of the Sisters of Charity in this town, is lying seriously ill at Snohomish, with scarcely a hope of recovery. Her piety, intelligence, kindness and devotion to her duties, made her a general favorite.....At the regular quarterly installation of officers in Lincoln Lodge, No. 1, I. O. G. T., held on Tuesday evening, Feb. 2d, the following persons were installed for the ensuing term: James Orr, W. C. T.; Mrs. Ezra Durgan, W. V. T.; Charlie Brown, W. S.; Wm. Wallace, W. F S.; Miss Sennie Rankin, W. T.; F. Rankin, W. M., Miss Molly Rankin, W. I. G.; I. T. Manlaby, W. O. G., J. H. Maxon, P. W. C. T.; Rev. Clark Smith, W. C.; J. F. Smith was elected Lodge Deputy.

FIRE ALARM.—Just at dusk, Saturday evening, there was an alarm of fire, arising from a blaze discovered in the [illegible] rear room of a building on the west side of Second street, between Alder and Morrison. No. 2 steamer got to the place in a few moments and put the fire out, the other companies being misled as to the locality. The canvas and paper lining of the room was burned, but no further harm done. The fire was set accidentally by some little boys who were playing with powder. They found a couple of cans of powder in the building and were amusing themselves by [illegible] it on the floor and setting fire to it. As [illegible] have been expected, they exploded one of the cans, severely burning one of the boys, slightly [illegible] another, and setting fire to the building. Quite an amount of powder is still remaining in the building—probably left there by persons connected with the artillery company. The Chief Engineer will have it removed.

CORONER'S INQUEST.—An inquest was held on Saturday, at the Pioneer Hotel, by M. P. Bull, Justice of the Peace, acting as Coroner, upon the remains of Wm. Jackson, who was found dead in his bed at the Shakespeare Hotel on Saturday morning. The following are the names of the witnesses who testified: Drs Loryea, Chapman and Wythe, Mrs. Leath and her husband, Mrs. [illegible], Mr. Jackson. The jurors were M. B Millard, H. L. Hart, Chas. Robinson, R. A. White, Stephen Cooper and C. O. Clark. The following is the verdict: "We, the undersigned jurors, called to hold an inquest over the body of Wm. Jackson, find from the evidence produced before us that the deceased died from some cause to us unknown; and further, that there is no evidence of his having been unfairly treated." Upon the testimony of Drs. Loryea, Wythe and Watkins it was not deemed necessary to have an autopsy of the body.

A CISTERN OUT OF ORDER.—The foreman of No. 2's informs us that when the suction hose of the engine was put into the cistern at the intersection of Alder and Second, Friday evening, no water could be obtained. [illegible] that the lower end was immersed in mud, the [illegible] was taken up, when it was found that it had been [illegible] to the depth of nearly two feet. The [illegible] is not in proper condition, but we are not [illegible] who is at fault. We suspect that the top is a bad [illegible] that a new one is needed.

MATERIAL OMISSION.—In the item of Saturday morning noting the exercises at the Portland Academy, our correspondent omitted one of the material and most interesting portions—that of the criticisms upon the performances of the students, by three students appointed for that purpose: Messrs McCarver and Henderson and Master George Ainsworth. Visitors at the school speak of these criticisms in very complimentary terms.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT—DEADY, J.—Proceedings, of Saturday, Feb. 6th:

In the matter of Linville Bowers; voluntary bankrupt; order of discharge granted.

In the matter of Jacob Holgate; voluntary bankrupt; order of discharge granted.

Adjourned till Saturday next.

GUESS NOT.—The Herald says: "We understand it is the intention of the East Side Railroad Company to have cars running by the 15th of next month on their line towards Salem." It will doubtless be safe to say, without regard to what may or may not be the "intentions" of the Company, that they wont do anything of the kind. So far as we know there is not a rail now in the State.

KEEPING OPEN THE STREETS.—The Street Commissioner has recently had occasion to tear down several fences built across Park street by private citizens who claim the property. A suit has been begun against him in consequence of such action, but he is instructed by the Council to proceed, and the proper steps will be taken to maintain the city's rights in the premises.

RAIN FALL.—From a register kept by Prof Collier, of the Forest Grove College, it appears that from July 1st to December 31, 1868, the total fall of rain was 16 01 inches, as follows: July 1st and 2d, 30-000; from July 2d to October 12, 13-000; October, after the 22d, 2.01 inch; November, 4.67 inches. December, 9 25 [illegible].

CIRCUIT COURT.—To-day is the appointed time for the opening of the February term of the Circuit Court, but Judge Upton being still absent, it is doubtful if any term be held. We learn that Judge Boise has been telegraphed to come down and hold the term, but we cannot learn that any answer has been received.

INFORMATION WANTED.—J. T. Kenworthy writes from Seattle that "information is wanted of Henry L. Buel, who arrived in Oregon in 1865 from Kankakee, Illinois. He will find a letter for him at the postoffice in Portland which will inform him of something which will be to his advantage."

PROF. HERMAN, the Wizard and Ventriloquist, will give a parlor entertainment to-morrow evening at Cardinell's Dancing Academy. He gave entertainments last week at Oregon City, of which the Enterprise speaks in complimentary terms.

DOWN THE RIVER.—The down river steamer reports nothing new below, except that the barkentine Adele will be towed down to-day from St. Helens to Rainier where she will take a deck load of lumber for San Francisco.

RUMOR.—The Herald says a rumor was current on Saturday on the streets that Byron Z Holmes, of this city, was sick with the small pox at Jacksonville, to which place he went some weeks ago on business.

COMING HOME.—We learn that Rev. Dr Atkinson is expected to arrive home by the next steamer or the succeeding one, having sailed from New York by the steamer Alaska, Jan 9th.

THE GEO. S WRIGHT.—We learn by private telegram that the Wright left Olympia at 10 A M yesterday, and will leave Victoria for Portland on Wednesday morning next.

PERSONAL.—Hon F. L. Applegate and F B Mason, both of Eugene City and both connected with the State Journal, are in this city, and each favored us with calls yesterday.

REAL ESTATE SALE.—On Saturday Mr A. B. Richardson, auctioneer, sold at auction the south half of block 8 for $1,335 and lot 5 in block 192, for $950.

ARRIVAL OF THE ACTIVE.—The steamship Active arrived from Victoria, on Saturday, with a small passenger list—not furnished us.

CLOSE OF TERM.—The winter term of the Portland Academy will close next Friday.

PIRATES

SAIL UNDER FALSE COLORS!!

THE BEST EVIDENCE OF THE VALUE OF AN article may be found in the fact of its having numerous imitators. Every fine poem has its parodies, every meritorious literary work is subject to plagiarisms, every successful play has been burlesqued; every honest man has his detractors, every genuine dollar has been counterfeited, and every valuable medicinal preparation has its vile imitations. The proprietors of have encountered the usual experience in this respect. Such has been the success of this sterling preparation, that all inferior articles of the kind have virtually been driven from the market. The concoctors of these beverages, finding that this new Tonic has exactly met the public want, and that no further demand exists for inferior preparations, have resorted to the dishonest expedient of imitating either the name or the style of label, both of which have been duly secured by the laws of the State to the proprietors of the I X L Bitters.

In justice to ourselves, as well as to the public who may be deceived by these nefarious practices, we hereby notify all parties guilty of infringement on our rights as well as those who have been buying up our old bottles in order to palm off their own nostrums as the genuine article, that they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

For the further protection of consumers, we would state that we never sell our Bitters in bulk, but always by the case. Look for our Trade Mark on every bottle, and in ordering the article otherwise than direct from us, be sure to order, "Dr. Henley's Wild Grape Root I X L Bitters," and don't allow yourself to be imposed upon with an inferior article.

The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeiting the label, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Railroad Subsidies.

Propositions have been made in Congress withhold further subsidies from certain ilroad companies until they strictly comply ith the terms of the contract with the Government, and make the roads first-class. It ll require a further expenditure of $5,000 r mile on a considerable part of the route f the Union Pacific to make the road what it ould be, and what the contract requires.

The Government Commissioners estimate e total cost of the Union Pacific from maha to Salt Lake, a distance of 1,110 miles, t $34,997 per mile, or $38,824,801 for the hole line. The Company received from the overnment $16,000 per mile for the first 528 niles, $48,000 for the next 150 miles over the lopes of the Rocky Mountains, and $32,000 er mile for the remainder of the distance, eing 432 miles. Total subsidy, $29,504,000, verage per mile $26,580. The Government urrendered the first mortgage to the Comany. The sum realized for the whole bonds amounted to $56,647,680, an average of $51,033 per mile, showing a clear profit of $16,057 per mile, or nearly $18,000,000 for the entire job. To state the whole matter in a word, the figures show that the managers built the road at less than three-fourths the amount charged per mile. This is independent of the land grant. For a large portion of the way the lands are of little value, but there are undoubtedly many good tracts which will yield the Company handsome returns.

More roads are now projected, and the question arises, how shall past errors be rectified and security be obtained for the future? It is clear enough that Congress will not grant any more subsidies on the same terms and to the same extent as those already granted. Nor should it do so. The experience already had ought to be a guard against future errors. It was impossible to avoid the mistakes already made, because the country had no experience in constructing great roads under such circumstances. The building of a Pacific Railroad was imperative. The Government granted a large subsidy, making as it were, an experiment; and in the sequel it appears that the subsidy was greater than was needed to build the road. If any more grants are made it will be on an entirely new scheme.

The plan which Congress is now considering certainly appears to be more safe for the Government and more equitable for the people. A grand scheme is forming which proposes to include all the great lines for which subsidies have been asked, making 5,400 miles of road. The proposition is that the Government shall simply guarantee the interest at six per cent. on bonds to the amount of $30,000 per mile. This principal would aggregate $162,000,000, and the interest upon it would amount to $9,720,000 per annum. It is proposed that the Government shall be secured by reservations on the business done by the roads. This is a very comprehensive scheme, and one which seems to promise large results to the country with a comparatively small outlay of public money. It can hardly be conjectured with any certainty whether the project will be adopted or not, as there is clearly a strenuous opposition in Congress to further subsidies of every kind. But if this or any other comprehensive system be adopted, we of the Pacific coast will have no reason to complain of any additional burden which it may lay on the Government; for we will derive advantages from it out of all proportion to any increase of taxation which it may bring. In the event of the passage of the act reported by the Senate Committee, Oregon will be furnished with all the railroad connections she has ever asked. The $30,000 per mile on which interest is to be guaranteed, will be almost or quite sufficient to construct the roads. The funds realized by the road would hardly be less than 90 per cent. of the amount of the bonds, and probably would be more. The people of the Pacific coast will await with a deep interest the development of this plan and the final action of Congress upon it.

What is It?—The Herald and Commercial would no doubt gratify a portion of their [illegible] if they would inform them why it is that they (the two journals mentioned) are so anxious to pay the claims of the "Southern loyalists," and are yet so earnestly advocating the partial or total repudiation of Northern loyalists' claims. But we suppose th[illegible] will not give any definite explanation. Their purpose, however, is just as intelligible as if they were to declare it in the most open and unequivocal manner. They want to embarrass Grant's administration with a greatly augmented debt, hoping thus to overthrow the Republican party and bring about general repudiation. If, in the meantime, every rebel in the South should obtain compensation, in part or in whole, for the losses of the war, it would please our Democratic neighbors so much the better. This scheme of paying Southern claims is another of the many dodges of Copperheadism to assist the Southern rebels and obtain a party triumph. If these claims should be allowed, in compliance with Democratic demands, the organs of that party would exclaim against the frightful increase of the debt, and cry out, "Down with Radical extravagance!"

The Doomed Senators.—It appears that Hamlin was elected Senator in Maine almost solely because Fessenden preferred Morrill, Hamlin's competitor. So great is the feeling among the Republicans of Maine against Fessenden on account of his crooked course and shameful recreancy in the impeachment trial! Heretofore Fessenden has had the strongest hold on the people of Maine of any man in the State; but now his colleague in the Senate, whose own record is unimpeachable, is defeated for re-election simply because Fessenden prefers him! This indicates what is in store for Fessenden himself in 1871. Not one of the Senators who first declared that Johnson had violated the Constitution and laws in removing Stanton, and then voted for his acquittal, can sustain himself before the people. Every man of them is doomed to political obscurity. Even the great abilities of Trumbull and Fessenden cannot save them.

For many years past the ingenuity of engineers and artisans has been exhausted in endeavoring to discover a way of boring a large number of holes in the closest possible proximity to each other, such a mode of boring holes being required in the manufacture of brushes, cane bottoms, doors and blinds, boiler-plates, and many other kinds of work. The present system used is the boring of each hole separately, and the consumption of a vast deal of time and labor in every brush, block, etc., made. This difficulty has been overcome by an ingenious mechanic of Newark, N. J., who has invented an aparatus that bores any number of holes as close together as pin holes, or as far apart as may be required.

Wm. Greenleaf Webster, son of Noah Webster, author of Webster's Dictionary, and who had much to do in the preparation of that work, died at New York on the 1st of January, at the age of fifty-three years.

STATE ITEMS

Fifty marriage licenses have been issued in Linn county since July last, about two per week.

The first number of the Wallamet Farmer, the new agricultural paper, will appear about the 1st March.

The property of the Linn County Woolen Mills at Brownsville, will be offered at auction, by Sheriff Irvine, on Monday, Feb. 22d, at the Court House.

According to the Albany Register, Bro. Brown of the Democrat, went out shooting the other day and espying a pine squirrel, he jumped upon a stump to get a shot at the "anemile." He "shot his gun off" at the squirrel, and his gun in turn being over-loaded, kicked him off the stump into the water, where he was found and rescued by a couple of his friends, with a badly bruised face and his right eye in mourning. Mart says it was a pretty loud "call," and this thing called "fun" in hunting, ain't much to speak of, but he give that squirrel a scare, you bet your boots!

The Albany Register has the following, which seems to be related of two well known and highly esteemed citizens of that place: Thompson and Rogers, two married men, wandering home late one night, stopped at what Thompson supposed was his residence, but which his companion insisted was his own house. Thompson rang the bell lustily, when a window was opened, and a lady inquired what was wanted. "Ma'am," inquired Mr. T., "isn't this Mr. T—Thompson's house?" "No," replied the lady, "this is the residence of Mr. Rogers." "Well," exclaimed Thompson, "Mrs. T—T—Thompson—beg your pardon—Mrs. Rogers, won't you just step down to the door and pick out Rogers, for Thompson wants to go home."

A correspondent at North Yamhill writes that some days ago a party of boys made a raid upon the store of Messrs. Hausworth & Laughlin at that place. They entered the store at night by a back window, emptied the money drawer, took a lot of tobacco and other "necessaries" and decamped. Suspicion at once rested upon the real perpetrators of the act. The youngest boy, aged twelve years, soon confessed, and soon after the two older ones, each about sixteen, owned up also. A part of the plunder was recovered. The two older boys were arrested and held to answer in the sum of $500 each. It is very probable that these boys have a prison life of considerable duration before them. Can it be that they have been properly reared and instructed? Do parents realize what responsibilities are resting upon them?

Col. W. G. T'Vault, who died of small pox last week at Jacksonville, came to Oregon in 1844. He was connected with the Provisional Government before the Territory was organized, and after that event was a member of the Territorial Legislature. In 1858 he was elected Speaker of the House, being the first meeting of the Legislature under the State Constitution. In 1846 he was editor of the Oregon Spectator, the first newspaper published on the Pacific coast. In 1847 he entered into a law partnership with Samuel R. Thurston, in which he continued till 1849. In 1852 he went to Jacksonville, and subsequently established two or three newspapers in that town. His last newspaper adventure was at Owyhee about three years ago. Last June he was elected Prosecuting Attorney in the First Judicial District of the State. Few men in Oregon have been more generally known.

Not long ago that poor rag, the American Unionist, which, as some may remember from occasional paragraphs published in the OREGONIAN, is a sort of obscure newspaper published at Salem, collected all the articles it had published in favor of an extra session of the Legislature and issued a circular containing them. This batch of ignorant and idle nonsense was accompanied by the information, printed in bold letters, that the Unionist is the "Official Paper of the State." The reader who is informed that when a vacancy occurs in the Legislature during a recess of that body it is the duty of the Governor to order an election immediately to fill it, and that the Legislature when convened in extra session "can only take action upon such business as may be set forth in the proclamation and message of the Executive," must have a high opinion of the intelligence of the "Official Paper." The Unionist is exactly fit to be the "official organ" of the mercenary brigade. The character and conduct of its proprietor entitle it to the distinction of being regarded as the mouthpiece of the Copper Johnson office-holders and nobody else.

Great Debate on Manifest Destiny.

Under the proposition which was made in Congress the other day to establish an American protectorate over sundry West Indian Islands, a debate was had on the Manifest Destiny of the American Eagle in which members on both sides of the House joined with equal unction. The New York Times of the 15th January hits it off in this excellent style:

> We all remember the immortal Pogram, who wished to be written on his tombstone that "He was a member of the Con-gress of our common country, and was ac-Tive in his trust," and whose eloquence was of the sort "calc'lated to make the British Lion put his tail between his legs and howl with anguish."
> Strangely enough, this language has usually been interpreted as satire, and as containing a gross "libel" on the American Eagle; whereas, in the great House debate of Wednesday, Pogram was completely outdone. With a wealth of mixed metaphor that must throw effete European orators into despair, Mr. Mullins said:
> "We are a city set upon a hill, and our light cannot be put under a bushel. We are a great light-house, and our influence should go forth to break the fetters of the enslaved and to destroy kingly dominations. We should spread out our arms like seas, that those in bondage should come to us. Republican life was the principle when God covenanted with man and made him a free agent, and despotism shall no longer domineer over the world."
> Truly we may ask with Col. Diver, "Are there not flowery components in the language of our friend?"
> And by as much as Mr. Mullins surpassed Elijah Pogram in pyrotechnic patriotism, by so much did Mr. Maynard surpass Jefferson Brick, and Gen. Banks outstrip Brick and Pogram combined. When we find Mr. Maynard declaring that it is an "influence on the banks of the Tiber," that has "kindled the disturbances in the heaven adorned region of St. Domingo," we can only match it with Gen. Butler's doctrine that the Antilles and the Sandwich Islands "belong" to the United States "by position and the laws of nature." When we find Mr. Spalding announcing, with an appearance of semi official authority, that "if there were anything decreed in the counsels of Infinite wisdom, it was the destiny of the American Government to spread itself over all this continent and the islands adjacent thereto," we can only tally it with Gen. Banks' personal assurance that "the Providence of God had forced this subject" of protecting Hayti upon us, and accordingly "it could not be avoided by laying it on the table"—and then wonder at the daring impiety of the House in immediately laying it upon the table by a vote of nearly four to one.
> So, when we hear one gentleman saying that the "authority" for establishing protectorates was "the declaration of our national conventions and the imperial power of the ballot-box," we are not surprised to find another gentleman fathering manifest destiny on Christopher Columbus and the Continental Congress; though the logic by which this last gentleman "supposed that when our fathers called their Congress and their money "Continental," they thereby embraced these Gulf Islands as belonging to our political future," is something we cannot quite comprehend.
> There was only one possible way of handling this wild debate, and turning the whole thing to ridicule—and Mr. Robinson supplied it. When the House of Representatives was seriously debating a proposition to "extend protection to any island in the Atlantic or Pacific Oceans which lies nearer to the coast of the United States than to that of any foreign Government," it needed Mr. Robinson to move an amendment "including Ireland," on the ground that "steam and the telegraph brought Ireland under the scope of the proposition, and made Ireland a country adjacent to the United States." This proposition (for which Mr. Robinson deserves the thanks of the country,) put a fine climax on the debate, and when he announced that "Ireland with a fair field will lick England any day," and that "England will not have peace until Ireland is incorporated into our Union," Dickens' portrait gallery was complete, and to the Bricks and Pograms and Scudders, Mr. Robinson added in his own person, Mr. Lafayette Kettle, whose dearest sentiment was "may the British Lion have his talons eradicated by the noble bill of the American Eagle, and be taught to play upon the Irish Harp that music which is breathed in every shell that lies upon the shores of Green Columbia."
> Compared with these lofty sentiments, how groveling are the words of Mr. Delano, that he did not know how much of this earth should be subject to us," and that "if we have a manifest destiny, it should be that which shows to the world that we have a Government which respects the rights of all nations, doing no wrong ourselves, and submitting to no wrong from others."

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

DATES TO FEBRUARY 6.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—A bill has passed giving an additional term to the U. S. Court, in the eastern district of Arkansas. On motion of Mr. Edmunds, the Senate took up the bill to repeal the tenure of office law. Mr. Edmunds of the Judiciary Committee had amended the bill so as to give the President the power to suspend civil officers where he has been [illegible] subject to the approval of the Senate. The heads of department should be subject to removal at will of the President alone. The Committee had reported an amendment to that effect.

Mr. Morton favored the total repeal of the law. He thought the public service had never been benefited by it, but thought the law had been passed to put thieves in office, and throw on the Senate the custom of keeping them there.

Mr. Howe opposed excepting the Cabinet officers from the general provisions of the law. He saw no reason why the President should be allowed to dismiss the Cabinet officers at pleasure. He did not agree with Mr. Morton upon the effect of the bill upon the public service.

Mr. Thayer favored passing the bill as it came from the House, unconditionally repealing the law.

The morning hour having expired, the Senate resumed the consideration of the constitutional amendment. Mr. Davis was entitled to the floor but being unable to speak, yielded to Mr. Doolittle. Mr. Doolittle made a speech against the amendment, and denied the right or power of the general government to control the question of suffrage in the States. To put such a provision in the constitution, shows a design to destroy the State governments, and if adopted the States would lose the Republican form of government as they could not govern themselves. The amendment was in fact revolutionary.

Mr. Bayard followed, taking the same grounds as Mr. Doolittle.

Mr. Corbett advocated his amendment, excluding Chinamen and Indians, which he had introduced on the ground that it is unwise to admit to citizenship a class of pagans, who, if allowed to vote would come from China in vast numbers and take possession of the whole Pacific coast.

Mr. Wilson submitted an amendment that there shall be no discrimination in the rights of suffrage qualifications for or on account of race, color, birth, religion or property.

Mr. Howard, from the Committee on Pacific Railroad, reported a bill to aid the Northern and Southern Pacific, the Atlantic and Pacific, the Little Rock Arkansas Valley and Eastern Division, and the Oregon Branch Railroad Companies, by guaranteeing the interest on the bonds. Ordered printed.

Mr. Morgan made a minority report against the bill. The Senate adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—It is understood that the vote in the Committee on the Pacific Railroad bill was as follows: For the bill, Drake, Conness, Stewart, Rice, Ramsey and Abbot.—Against, Howard, Harlan, Morgan, Sherman and Wilson.

House. The House, during the morning hour, was wholly occupied in disposing of private bills.

Mr. Hooper, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported a bill prohibiting the increase of the public debt, which was ordered printed. Remarks were made on the bill by Randall, Schenck, Judd and others. The bill was then recommitted.

Mr. Ela rose to a privilege, wherein he recited the fact of the assault made yesterday by Dempsey, of the firm of Dempsey & O'Toole, upon one of the witnesses examined before the Committee on Printing, in relation to stationery contracts with the Interior Department, and offered a resolution directing the heads of departments to rescind all contracts with that firm.

Mr. Kerr objected.

Mr. Shanks, from the Committee on the Treatment of Union Prisoners, obtained leave to make a report.

The Senate bill, to give additional terms to the Court of the eastern district of Arkansas, passed.

A number of bills were reported from the committees but not acted upon.

The House went into Committee of the Whole and resumed consideration of the army appropriation bill.

Mr. Blaine said that in view of the sentiment of the House, expressed in the discussion yesterday, he had been authorized to prepare amendments reducing the amount to ten million dollars.

A debate arose between Blaine and Eldridge in relation to taking possession of Ford's Theater by the Secretary of War. Other members participated in the discussion, which was finally terminated by the Speaker ruling the whole subject out of order.

Mr. Windom moved to reduce the quartermaster appropriation from five million to three million. After considerable discussion, it was rejected.

Mr. Windom moved to reduce the appropriation for the Quartermaster's Department from five to three millions, charging great waste, extravagance and corruption on the part of the members at different points. He expressly excepted the department at Washington. The amendment was rejected.

The amendment of Butler was adopted, authorizing the commandant of a post to lease vacant lands or buildings to civilians, paying the proceeds into the Treasury.

A discussion arose on the resolution appropriating $1,000,000 to the arsenal at Rock Island. Without disposing of the subject, the Committee rose.

Mr. Garfielde, from the Committee on Military Affairs, reported an amendment for the reduction of the army by 10,000 men and 670 officers—the latter, by gradual adoption. Also consolidating the Ordnance, Commissary, and pay departments and artillery and ordnance corps.

Mr. Butler offered another amendment, proposing a direct mustering out of supernumerary officers.

THE PRESS ON THE SUE MURPHY CLAIM.

[From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.]

There are not a few expensive women in the United States; but it is safe to say that no woman ever threatened to cost the country so much as Sue Murphy of Alabama. The late Artemus Ward once went into an elaborate calculation to determine the precise sum which Jefferson Davis would have been "in pocket" had he failed to come upon the stage of existence; but who can presume to tell how much generations yet to come could afford at this moment to pay Sue Murphy never to have allowed herself to be born? Many a woman went to prison during the war for endangering the peace of the country a great deal less than this loyal and fascinating Southern Union woman, who sits in the gallery of the Senate, carefully watching the progress of her claim, and looking after Senators who have been frail enough to promise to "help her to her rights." Half a dozen of Mr. Sumner's Catilines, with daggers in their sleeves, would be a harmless and even a welcome accession to the galleries or the floor, compared to that single sharp eyed lady, whose smiles and frowns chase each other in quick succession, as honorable Senators say yes or no to the proposition that Sue Murphy shall be paid for damages sustained at the hands of our troops. For the Catilines could only murder a few Senators, and, if they were not very careful where they struck, might not do so much mischief after all; but behind that one Southern woman stands such danger to the honor and credit of the nation as would be dear for half a dozen generations of Congressmen. Which all is because Sue Murphy represents a class of claims which, if once admitted to legislative probate, will speedily swamp the treasury, pile up the debt beyond all hope of payment, and involve ultimate repudiation. Therefore it is that every vote given for such a cause should be deemed to be treachery at once to the party and to the republic. To the party—that is plain enough from the votes of the few Democrats in the Senate, who are eager to urge on the adoption of this policy, seeing clearly that it will lead to the downfall of the Republican ascendancy. To the country, because it is a vote for bankruptcy or repudiation. The Democrats will be a unit for it; the members from the Southern and border States will support it almost unanimously, because it concerns their constituents. The people and the press of the North can, if they will, render it impossible for a single representative from the North to lend himself to this infamy.

[From the Missouri Democrat, Jan. 19.]

Well, who is she? Congress is putting its whole mind upon her case, and perhaps the people may as well look into it. Personally, Miss Susan may be attractive, or the reverse, for aught we know, but as a claimant against the United States Treasury, and as the avant courier of a million similar claimants, she is the particular and deadly foe of every taxpayer. Miss Murphy, in March, 1864, was living with her sister in a house at Decatur, Alabama, when Sherman ordered the place to be fortified as a military post, and in the construction of the fortification her house was moved. For injury to her property she claimed seven thousand dollars. If this little claim stood by itself, the Treasury would not feel the loss, nor need Congress, or the people discuss the question. But behind Susan there are a million of claims equally good. Her case involves a principle which must be settled one way or the other. If settled for the claimants, our national debt will be doubled, and the Treasury driven to bankruptcy. Susan, therefore, is bankruptcy disguised in female apparel. She is a woman, and everybody has sympathy for a poor woman. But then there are thousands of women and children, widows and orphans, whose very existence depends upon the solvency of the nation. Susan and the claimants who follow in her wake demand the last crust of bread from the mouths of the many more needy and more deserving. Sympathy is out of place in such a case. In civil war somebody must suffer, better the few than the many; better the innocent than the guilty. Better that the Southern sufferers should bear the losses of war than that the Northern people should be taxed and the nation ruined to repay them. But Sue Murphy is "loyal." Exactly? Everybody is loyal who has a claim against the treasury. It is a most extraordinary fact, but none of the claimants ever sympathized with rebellion. How it is one can not understand, but in some miraculous way our troops contrived never to burn a house, to seize a horse, to carry off a load of forage, that did not belong to a "good Union man" or woman! Every house that they burned was owned by a "good loyal man!" And then everybody knows how remarkably loyal the Southern women were! The men were—well, there was not male loyalty enough in the State of Alabama to light a pipe with. But the women!—did anybody ever hear of a female loyalist in that region? Except, of course, those who have claims! They are all loyal, and the loyal all have claims! The plain fact is that the people of the South, men and women, are responsible for the rebellion. Not any of them tried their best to prevent it; not any of them protested against the system or heresies which caused it. Their folly or weakness recoils upon them in loss, and it serves them right. There is not a loyal man at the South—not one—who can honestly and truthfully say, "I did everything in my power to prevent this war!" Not one! It is just those who dance should pay the piper.

THE SENATORIAL CONTEST IN MAINE.

(From the Springfield Republican, Jan. 16.)

Intellectually, and as Republicans, there was little or no distinction between the rival candidates. Both were old Democrats, and as Republicans had followed the same general line of thought and action. Mr. Morrill succeeded Mr. Hamlin as United States Senator on the latter's becoming Vice President, and now he is forced to give up to his predecessor by the narrow margin of a single vote in the legislative caucus. Probably there is both more political and mental force in Mr. Hamlin's composition and character, but Mr. Morrill, by virtue of a greater and more delicate self respect, and its sequence, a greater and more delicate respect for others, had won more deeply the favor of his associates at Washington, and of gentlemen everywhere. Most, if not all of the members of the House from Maine, and of the Senators from all the States, preferred, and, so far as was proper, sought the re-election of Mr. Morrill. But Mr. Hamlin succeeds by his superiority in dealing with the crude and coarse elements of local politics; by what may be summed up best, perhaps, as "dirty shirt demagoguism," and also by adroitly turning to his account the present general unpopularity in Maine of Mr. Fessenden, between himself and whom there could naturally be no sympathy, and who preferred the re-election of his present colleague. Ten to twenty members of the Legislature are declared to have been influenced to go for Mr. Hamlin simply in order to show their spite for Mr. Fessenden.

THE MAGNESIUM LIGHT.

[From the New York Sun, Jan. 14.]

The only obstacle to the general use of the magnesium light has been the great expense attending the manufacture of oxygen gas, the great supporter of combustion. This difficulty, however, has now been overcome, and the gas can be produced by a very simple process at a cost of $20 per 1,000 cubic feet. Oxygen gas was formerly obtained by the decomposition of chlorate of potash, a most expensive article—and cost $400 per 1,000 cubic feet. The magnesium light is found to possess 16 times as much illuminating power as the best coal gas and is consequently is twenty times as brilliant as any coal gas yet manufactured in New York for general consumption. The new light possesses several other advantages. It is from thirty to forty per cent. cheaper than coal gas, it does not flicker, and cannot be blown out, it gives off very little carbonic acid, and beneath its rays the most delicate shades of color lose none of their brilliancy or beauty.

ASTRONOMICAL PHENOMENA.

From the Pittsburg Commercial, Jan. 16.

The nineteenth century boasts of its prophets as well as its philosophers. In the beginning of 1868, Professor Delisser said a series of celestial and terrestrial phenomena were at hand. In a statement published by him, he predicts that "on the night of the 27th of February, in the western heavens, there will be a conjunction of the moon with Jupiter and Venus, and three nights later Jupiter will pass Venus by only 2[illegible] seconds of a degree. The result of these conjunctions and perturbations will be atmospheric commotion, electrical discharges, heavy gales, high tides, earthquakes, and nobody knows what besides. Moreover, the whole year will be fearful for its storms, inundations, eruptions, quakings of the earth, &c." All of these predictions have been fulfilled in a remarkable manner. Earthquakes, tidal waves, volcanic eruptions, meteoric showers and violent hurricanes have succeeded each other with violent rapidity. If the phenomena were not merely coincidents, a committee of public safety should confer with Professor Delisser immediately and induce him to discontinue his prognostications.

OPPOSITION LINE OF STEAMERS.—A private letter from San Francisco says that a strong and well regulated Steamship company was formed in that city for the purpose of running a line of steamers regularly between San Francisco and Portland. The steamers are known to be suitable for the Oregon trade, and are noted for good speed and splendid passenger accommodation. The people of Oregon will have an opportunity of showing whether they are willing to patronize good and staunch steamers, at a reasonable price for freight and passage, as it will depend on the patronage these steamers will receive whether they will remain in our waters or not.

While you think of opposition, remember that KOHN & FISHEL, No. 91 Front street, have the finest stock of Clothing and Dry Goods, and sell at very low prices.
